

Two Councils One Team

Broadland District Council and South Norfolk Council – situated in the heart of Norfolk – together form one of the best places to live and work in the country.

Our two councils already have a great track record of working together and we are now searching for Assistant Directors with the ambition, drive and leadership skills to help us deliver a step change in the way council services are provided.

Our successful collaboration is now being taken to new levels with one paid service, one team, serving two autonomous councils.

The strategic focus of our One Team, Two Councils, approach has been on driving economic and housing growth and improving the services we deliver to our 260,000 residents and 10,000 businesses.

We are now looking to complete our joint officer team and have a number of Assistant Director opportunities. These are once in a career opportunities to help shape the future of local government.

You will help us maximise the benefits that the enhanced scale of our collaboration brings as we take advantage of our stronger voice both regionally and nationally.

This is an exciting opportunity that is open to all. We are looking forward and we need people who are comfortable in an environment where the first question is “What if?”
